Last Week's Events

Last Tuesday we had 8 members at our meeting and we decided to make it a comedy night. Ok I know every meeting is fun, but we miss Joke Master Dough, so President Darryl and I brought along a few jokes. We actually started with one from Dough that he emailed to me.

Three dogs are walking on the highway. They see a French Poodle on the other side. IOU, La-La. They are instantly in love.

The Poodle says, whoever can use the words, Liver & cheese in an intelligent sentence can be my boyfriend.

The first one, a collie says, "I hate liver and cheese!" That was too stupid!

The next one, a Shepard says, "I love liver and cheese "That was too simple!"

The third one, a Chikwawa says, "Liver alone, cheese mine!"

Yep, Doug's getting back on form.

Ok one more from me:

I got a new pair of glasses, but my wife took them back to the optician to complain about them>

The optician asked what was wrong with them

She said they are no good because he still can't see things my way.

I will quit while I am losing.

SLP Update

If you want to see our KIWIN'S and Key Clubs in action there are two opportunities coming up. This Friday the local Key Clubs will be holding their DCM at the Oxnard Beach Park and on Saturday June 29, the local KIWIN'S Clubs will be holding their end of year Banquet combined with their DCM at the Oxnard Central Park at the rear of the Collection. See details in the upcoming events above. They need chaperons to be able to carry out these events, so if you can find the time, come along and support them. These are out future leaders and they always have a lot of fun and manage to include a service project or two. I hope to be going to both events so we can carpool.

Peanut Fundraiser

I do have some cans of Honey Roasted Nut Mix, containing Cashews, Almonds, Pecans & Macadamias and for those that are healthy eaters they claim to have no artificial preservatives, flavors or colors – no Cholesterol – no Trans Fats. Also, there are only 180 Calories per ¼ cup. I am so glad I brought those large cups.

Have a Great Week
